THE COLONIST AND EDUCATION.

EDITOR DAILY TIMES:—Do you not think the Colonist should explain why a telegram (cooked with eleven extra words) was produced by the Education Department as evidence; Why a row of stars was printed in place of part of the sworn voluntary statement of the Inspector of schools? Why a letter on education dated June 20th, 1889, signed John Robson, Provincial Secretary, contains false statements. Why Mr. Pope holds semi-annual written promotion examinations in the cities, thus wasting about three weeks each half year of the precious time of the pupils; because he has at hand a record which is the only true test of a pupil's progress (viz., daily marks), which he says the teachers can keep and are keeping!!. Why the estimates for Mountain school, with an average of thirty-four pupils, is not increased from $50 per month, whilst Esquimalt school, with an average of only twenty-eight pupils, has provision for $70 per month; and why the estimates for South Saanich school, have been reduced $10 per month. The people want to know why.

San Francisco Gets Fast Freight by the Canadian Pacific—Account of the Killing of Traveller James by a Wounded Elephant—Chinese Arriving in 'Frisco.

WASHINGTON CITY, May 25.—Senator Squire has written a request to the secretary of the navy, calling his attention to the fact that an expedition from the national geographic service is about to leave for Alaska for the ascent of Mount St. Elias, Alaska. He says that it is feared delay will be caused by lack of transportation facilities from Sitka to Yakulatt bay. He asks that the naval vessel Pinto to be put at their disposal to transport them to their destination. The time occupied, says the senator, will be only two or three days and will greatly accommodate the expedition. The secretary has not yet responded, but it is believed the request will be granted.

Canadian Pacific Fast Freight.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 26.—The Canadian Pacific has put into effect a fast freight schedule from the Atlantic seaboard to the Pacific coast, by which consignments are brought from New York to San Francisco by way of Vancouver and the steamer line in from 17 to 19 days. Through cars are run to Vancouver from North Bay, Ontario. Similar time is being made in eastern freight shipments.

Irate Father.

COLUMBUS, Ind., May 27.—At Hope, in this county, Otto Scaff, aged 25, attempted to elope with Miss Pearl Franzoe, the 17-year old daughter of Hampton Franzoe, owner of several fast horses. The young lady's father heard of the affair in time to appear in front of the couple with a double barrelled shot gun. Young Scaff showed fight and dealt the irate father a fearful blow in the leg with a stone rendering a very painful wound. The young woman's father leveled his gun at Scaff snapping it several times but it failed to do any harm. The young lady having taken the shells out of the gun some two hours previous to her departure from home, as he had threatened to kill her lover. Young Scaff drew a revolver and fired two shots at Franzoe and then departed on the first train, leaving his lover in the hands of her angry father whom he threatened to kill if he did not peacefully consent to their marriage. Franzoe came to this city and filed a complaint against young Scaff for assault and battery with intent to kill.

More Chinese Landing.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 27.—Yesterday eight more of the Chinese passengers of the Belgic were allowed to land, being possessed of papers proving their identity, this, with the twenty-six landed on Saturday, gives a total of thirty-four who have thus far come ashore, besides eighteen in transit for Havana, who have already started on their trip across the continent. The point of deportation is Key West, Fla., and until they arrive there the conductors and other attaches of the trains upon which they travel have to keep them practically under lock and key to prevent escape. The papers of the Chinese are forwarded from this city to Key West and a strict investigation held. The Celestials are allowed the said with view to the detecting of any evidence of fraud such as the substitution of one Chinaman who desires to remain here for another who is willing to go to Cuba.

Tragic Death.

NEW YORK, May 27.—The Tribune this morning publishes an interesting article relative to the death of Frank T. James, the well-known African traveler and author, who was killed near Garboon River in Africa on April 21st, by a wounded elephant. The first news of the accident reached this country on April 23rd, in a cable to D. Willis James, his half brother, who received it during his wedding festivities at Northampton. The full details were not received until yesterday, when a despatch was received from Arthur James, who was in this country to attend to his nephew's wedding, but had hurried back to England to receive his brother's body. Mr. James' body was pierced in front by the tusks of a wounded elephant. The injured man knew that he was dying, but the shock to his system prevented him from feeling any pain, and almost dulled his senses. He lived only forty minutes after receiving the wound. The last words on his lips were for his youngest brother William, to whom he was devotedly attached. Only one member of the party was with him at the accident, which happened about five miles from his yacht. The body was placed on his yacht, which reached Southampton, England, Saturday last.

Dynamited the Chinese.

MERVILL, Wis., May 27.—An attempt was made last night to blow up a Chinese laundry with dynamite. The floor was blown into splinters, furniture wrecked and the windows smashed. Three Chinamen were asleep in the building when the explosion came, and a door was blown off its hinges into a bed occupied by Yep Sam and the proprietor, yet they were uninjured. Two men were seen running away from the building a few minutes before the explosion, but there is no clue to their identity.

Row in a Synagogue.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 27.—Quite a sensation occurred here at the celebration of the Jewish Feast of Weeks yesterday. Rev. P. Werber, of Baltimore, began his discourse by declaring in the face of 800 Israelites that their ideas of Messiah are rediculous. That Christ had been on earth, and his second coming would be in the glare of a burning world. Men sprang to their feet in excitement and rushed to the platform, and attempted to tear the rabbi's cap from his head. Several ministers of the German Reformed Church were present, and were instrumental in keeping the maddened crowd from doing immediate violence.

Like Father, Like Son.

COLUSA, Cala., May 27.—Joe. Casey, who shot and killed Dan Matheson at Williams, during a drunken row last New Years Day, and who pleaded guilty yesterday, was this morning sentenced to States prison for life. Casey was a son of Jas. Casey, who was hanged by vigilants in San Francisco in 1856.

NORTH AND SOUTH AMERICA

A Scheme to Unite them by a Railway—An Outcome of the Pan-American Conference

WASHINGTON, May 26.—The following letter from James G. Blaine, Secretary of State, and who was President of the Pan-American Conference, has been transmitted by President Harrison to both Houses.

Department of State, Washington, D.C., May 12, 1890.

To the President: I have the honor to submit herewith the plan for a preliminary survey for a railway line to connect the great commercial cities of the American hemispheres. No more important recommendation has come from the International American Conference, and I earnestly commend it to your attention, with the full confidence that prompt action will be taken by Congress to enable this Government to participate in the promotion of the enterprise. The resolutions of the Conference are accompanied by special reports concerning transportation facilities that already exist in several american republics. These reports comprise all information that could be gathered upon this important subject, and will be found both interesting and authentic. Under the generous and progressive policy of President Diaz, the railways of Mexico have been extended southward and toward the two oceans. The development of the Argentine system has been equally rapid. Lines of track now reach from Buenos Ayres to the northern cities of that republic, and nearly to the Bolivian boundary. Chili has a profitable system of railroads from the mountains to the Pacific, and the completion of the tunnel that is now being pierced through the Cordilleras will bring Valparaiso within two days' travel of Buenos Ayres. In other republics similar enterprise has been shown. Each has its local lines of railways, and to connect them all and furnish the people of the southern continent the means of convenient and comfortable intercourse with their neighbors north of the isthmus is an undertaking worthy of the encouragement and co-operation of this Government. In no other way could the Government and people of the United States contribute so much to the development and prosperity of our sister republics, and at the same time to the expansion of our own commerce. A very important feature of the report to which I especially direct your attention, will be found in the international declaration that the line for the proposed railway shall be for ever neutral territory; that the material necessary for the construction and operation of the road shall be admitted free of customs duties, and that its property and revenue shall be always exempt from all forms of taxation. This guarantee having all the force of a treaty, will stimulate private and public confidence, and then lead to the investment of capital that might otherwise be reluctant and distrustful. It is proposed that a survey to ascertain the best and most economical routes be made under the direction of an international commission, and that the expense be shared by the several nations of the hemisphere, in proportion to their respective populations. The share of the United States is estimated to be sixty-five thousand dollars, and I would respectfully suggest the propriety of securing from Congress an appropriation for that purpose. Three commissioners will be required to represent the United States upon the international board, and authority should be asked for the detail of officers of the navy to serve as engineers in conducting the survey. The headquarters of a commission by vote of the international conference, will be located in Washington, and it is proposed to invite the commissioners to meet here on the first of October next, or as soon thereafter as may be practicable, for the purpose of organization and initiating the work of survey.

OLYMPIC EXPLORERS.

They Return From their Long Trip in Rags and Tatters.

ABERDEEN, Wash., May 25.—The party sent out last December from Seattle to explore the Olympic mountains, and country west of that range, arrived here Tuesday and left for home yesterday. They were almost destitute of clothing, hatless, and their beards had not seen a razor for six months. For over three months they had lived exclusively on wild meat, and had not seen a white man. Coming down the Quinault river on a raft the entire party came near losing their lives by the raft being sucked under a drift by the swift current, and lost their guns, supplies and remaining food. About the only thing saved was the pack of Captain Barnes containing the records of the trip and some 350 photographs of the country they traversed. The captain saved this at the imminent risk of his life. The men were very reticent about the result of their trip, but it is known they have made important discoveries in the mineral line, and that they have traversed a vast stretch of uninhabited but splendid, fertile, rich country.

HOME AND FOREIGN.

CHRISTIANS ASK FOR PROTECTION AGAINST THE TURKS.

A Tennis Match for the Championship of the World—The Railways Which are to Connect North and South America—Germany's Army Bill.

LONDON, May 25.—The German government has asked the Reichstag for a further vote of $5,000,000 for military purposes. The uses to which this money is to be applied explain the importance and magnitude of the army bill now pending, which does not appear at first glance. In the first place the money is to be applied to the creation of seventy new field batteries, that is an addition of 420 guns to the field army. Second, the increase and establishment of infantry and cavalry regiments, especially those of the army corps stationed on the Russian and French frontiers; and, thirdly, the formation of a new Bavarian division. The increase of the artillery is intelligible enough. The German field army has 364 batteries, against the French 405 and the Russian 424. The present addition will give the Germans 434, which is more on a level with the figures of their neighbors. The exact distribution of the new batteries is not known. The old organization gave to each infantry division a field artillery regiment, composed of two brigade divisions of four batteries. Two years ago this system was revised by one in which the regiment consists of three brigade divisions of three batteries each. This would have given each division an extra battery of six guns, but it was carried out only in alternate regiments. It will now doubtless be extended to all regiments. According to a rough division the German army corps will, in the future, go into action with something like 130 guns instead of 96, so long the normal number. The artillery will be one-third more numerous than during the last war, and the effect expected from each guns is at least double what it used to be. The new Bavarian division means an addition of 12,000 infantry to the fighting force. The increase of the frontier corps seem to mean that those corps are to be permanently on a war footing. As to cavalry the statement is not quite intelligible. Seeing that for a long time past both Germany and France have kept a large part of their cavalry at war strength and able to push it up to or across the frontier within a given number of hours from an order to mobilize.

Tennis Match.

DUBLIN, May 27.—The tennis match between Thomas Pettit of Boston and Charles Saunders of England, for $2500 a side and the championship of the world, commenced in the city to-day. It will be continued on Wednesday and Friday. The winner must secure seven out of ten games.

Will Close Their Shops.

CANEA, Crete, May 27.—The Christians yesterday adopted resolutions appealing to the foreign consuls for protection against the continued outrages by the Turks. They threaten to close their shops and bring about a general suspension of business unless there is a change for the better in the attitude of the Turks towards them.

To be Presented with a Gown.

LONDON, May 27.—The admirers of Stanley at the University of Cambridge have subscribed for a gown to be presented to the great explorer on the occasion of his receiving the honor by the degree conferred upon him by the university. The event is almost unprecedented, for the recipients of degrees are usually obliged to buy their own robes, besides paying heavy fees. It is evidently the intention that Stanley shall have no annoyance in the matter, but be the guest of the university.

A Queer Man.

OTTAWA, May 27.—A number of reporters went our last night, Tuesday, to investigate the cause of the man Summerman, who was said to be running about naked and destitute on the mountains six miles southeast of Grimsby. The trip revealed one of the most astounding cases of human depravity ever seen in the country. The reporters found the man and had a talk with him after considerable difficulty. Thinking perhaps it was some form of religious mania, he was questioned about it and he answered very intelligently that he read the Bible and believed in God and thought that he belonged to the Presbyterian church. Though tried on various subjects he seemed sound enough except that he could give no reason for the way he was living. The man has been living 30 years stark naked.

THE AGGRESSIVE GAUL.

French Outrages Drive Newfoundland People to Desperation.

ST. JOHN, N. F., May 25.—The greatest excitement prevails here, the last two French outrages on the St. Johns population having driven the people almost to the verge of desperation. All along the coast known as the French shore, which extends from Cape St. John to Cape Ray, the fishing and farming population is arming, while agents have arrived here to purchase guns and ammunition to supply to the crews of Newfoundland fishing vessels. The present outlook is serious.

Unless the British Government takes immediate action to rescind the recent arbitration arrangement which gives France territorial rights for forty miles and inland on the coast named it is not improbable that the whole colony will be in open revolt in the near future.

The excitement grows out of the French outrages on Friday at Port An Basque, 300 miles from St. Johns, the most westerly settlement of importance on the island, and the barbarous treatment of the crew of a schooner which was aground, at the hands of Frenchmen, who beat the mate so badly that he may die.

Open hostilities are momentarily anticipated between the armed fishing vessels of Newfoundland and France, and as there are French men-of-war on the coast which will not respect the British flag, the result of such action would be disastrous to the St. Johns fishermen.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 25.—It is reported this morning that two of the English war ships now here have been instructed to sail with sealed orders for the scene of the trouble. It is also reported that the war ship Pelican, now cruising at the mouth of the St. Lawrence has received similar instructions.

GOT NO COMFORT THERE.

Lord Salisbury snubs the King of the Belgians.

LONDON, May 25.—During the recent sojourn here of the King of the Belgians that monarch had a conference with Lord Salisbury concerning the anarchists. He urged upon the British minister of foreign affairs to use his efforts to promote a bill for repression of the plottings of the anarchists in England and particularly of the clauses embodying the penalty of expulsion from the country in case they are suspected of being engaged in any conspiracy. King Leopold declares that the efforts of the continental powers to put down such conspiracies will always be futile so long as England affords a ready asylum for refugees of this description from other countries and does not take equally strong measures to stop their plottings.

Lord Salisbury replied to the King that the British parliament would instantly resent the merest suspicion that the Government was lending itself to the expulsion of refugees and that the cause of such action as the King of the Belgians desired him to take was quite out of the question.

SPORTING NOTES.

Brief Resume of Sporting Matters Here and Elsewhere.

A mile bicycle race on ordinary roadsters will probably soon be arranged for between Percy Jenns, winner of the amateur green race, and C. E. Jones, who did not start in it. Mr. Jones says he is not sure of beating Mr. Jenns, but he should very much like to have a race with him.

THE TURF.

Cyclone and Rubicon decided the question of superiority at the Driving Park yesterday afternoon, the former winning in two straight heats. The races in which the horses came together on Friday was declared off on account of jockeying on the part of the drivers. Hence the test yesterday. Two horses owned by Snyder and Sabine had a brush after the other race. The latter's horse won.

BASE BALL MATCH.

The base ball match between the Nanaimo and Wellington teams was played yesterday afternoon. The match was intended to be contested for the silver cup presented by Mayor Hilbert, but on account of the Wellington team having a professional among them the Nanaimo team refused to play for the cup, so both teams decided to play for a bat and ball. Nanaimo won the prize by 12 runs to 11 for Wellington.

HORSE RACING AT NANAIMO.

The race between W. Haslam's Dexter, and T. Kilpatrick's Dan, for $100 aside, took place on Saturday on the Comox road. The distance was 600 yards and was won by Kilpatrick's Dan after a very stubborn contest.

A FINE WHEEL.

Mr. A. A. Davidson, of Davidson Bros., to-day received from the Goold Bicycle Co., of Brantford, Ont., through their agent here, Mr. C. W. Minor, a Brantford safety bicycle, with all the latest improvements, including tangent spokes, spring forks, spade handles, diamond frame and patent saddle. This is the first Brantford of this design ever brought to the Province, and shows by its superior finish that Canadian work in this line cannot be surpassed. The machine is fitted throughout with Eaius ball bearings, and being very light, should be an easy roadster. Several more of these safeties are on the road here and there is no doubt that when their many excellent points are seen more will be ordered by wheelmen.

A PROTEST.

We have no personal knowledge of the affront offered a reporter at the Driving Park during the late meeting, and, therefore, are not in a position to either affirm or deny the charges made by our morning contemporary. We believe, however, that the Colonist would not speak with so much feeling in regard to the incident, had the provocation not been great—so great in fact that silence on its part would have been interpreted as a confession that its representative was the party upon whom censure should fall. We are glad therefore that the Colonist has spoken in terms not to be misunderstood. The idea is altogether too prevalent in certain quarters that a reporter is an inferior sort of a person and not fit company for "the elect." Instead of every facility being given representatives of the press upon public occasions it too often happens that they are compelled to obtain their information second hand and under circumstances not conducive to accuracy. For our part, we protest against the idea that reporters are not the same as other gentlemen; and if public meetings, social gatherings or political speeches are to be reported obstacles must not be put in their way.

From Victoria to Boom Town—Over the Northern Pacific to Kootenay Station—Our Correspondent in Imminent Danger in His Quest after Information.

From our Special Correspondent.]

Nearly everybody who reads the TIMES must have experienced the crossing from Victoria, B. C.—B. C. because of the number and antiquity of its old timers—to the youthful and aggressive land of the U. S. We are all familiar with Puget Sound. All down the long channels we have felt that we were in boom land, the country that so wonderfully subsists on real estate and projected railways, a country bristling with cities—a city in the States is required to have a saloon and a town plot at least—almost to the exclusion of settlement; a country which appears to be covered with timber, but really consists entirely of town lots, and streets named after everybody indiscriminately; a land where it takes four lots to make room for a house.

The eastern sky was just reddening when we reached boom town. The blaze of electric lights was fading under the stress of day and gaunt and lonely forest shut in on every side the piles of dusky buildings. Over forty thousand people were asleep there. How daring these Americans are! Under them the lumber waste drying for conflagration; in their midst the real estate sharks were selling "additions" among themselves, and advertising the transactions to excite little victims; and around them the primitive forest capable of supporting a tenth of them. Yet they sleep!

Then we went on to the present terminus of the Northern Pacific Railway and tried to solve certain obtrusive questions. How much has the company made in this place? How much more will it make? When will it pay to go out West and boom up another terminus? Well, let the people living by actual sea harbors, that can be entered by ship masters without tug or pilot, by sea harbors nearest to Asia, possess themselves in patience. When the railway monsters have devoured all that can be had in Boom Land, they will sell out and come West. Miss Victoria has a nice little property at Esquimalt, and with three or four railway monsters now ogling her she will no doubt soon be called upon to make a judicious selection and commit matrimony.

We came to the terminus—a palace for the company, a shed for the passengers; and, being favored in the extreme, were granted some breakfast during the last five of forty minutes allowed to us. Your correspondent then took train for the East, and was duly ticketed on the hat by an official. A periodical inspection of hats sufficed to make the official mind easy that none of the passengers branded had yet escaped from the train, neither did any of us go mad and bite, although an evil person tried us in succession with books, papers, tourist guides, oranges and apples, figs and dates, cigars, maple sugar and surprise packages, at prices which revealed to what a fearful degree we were isolated from the civilized world, and at the mercy of our keepers.

These morbid reflections would have been carried to a much greater extent but for the scenery which the other passengers were busy figuring out in hard cash as we went along. When we stopped in a rock cut to allow time for some cows to pasture on gravel dump rather than on ties, nearly all of us got out and began "prospecting." Each of us with a bit of rock in hand examined it gravely, and glared at it through a magnifying glass; but each of us also maintained a guarded demeanor and impervious silence as to our discoveries. I had spent hours watching the sun rise on Mount Rainier, and now as we approached the Cascades, he appeared once more, now within forty miles, and more glorious than ever, with a mane of wind-blown cloud about the crown. We tolerated Ranier, but were much excited about the tunnel with one hundred and something electric lights on each side, and the switch back railway, that, seen from the tunnel, approaches appeared so so wonderfully unsafe and ingenious that all marvelled. On the eastern face of the divide there was a cataract of rare grandeur, and, just beyond, the snow still lay deep under the pine trees. After the passage of the Cascade range the scenery settled down gradually to the "beautiful sage brush plains" of the guide book.

It was four o'clock in the morning when the conductor shook me up, and I grabbed my valise and dropped off on the dump in the woods. Then the train moved on, and I found myself somewhere in the woods of northern Idaho. Close at hand was Kootenai Station, a cluster of shacks among the burned stumps, comprising a boarding house, a saloon or two, and a little shop. Thirty-two miles to the north is the great bend of the Kootenay river, that having come from the Rocky Mountains, not very far from the Canadian Pacific line, and flowed southwards into Montana and Idaho, here strikes north again to Kootenay lake, and thence drains by a series of rapids to the Columbia. A mail stage connects the Northern Pacific with Bonner's ferry on the river. In due course came a wash and some breakfast, and then, the only passenger, I was consigned to the tender care of the stage-driver. Having a four-horse team, a strong wagon, and a light load, he showed some little confidence that "we should get through all right." This seemed rather ominous, and as I took my place by the driver I noted a guard across the middle of the seat, and also that the guard at my end had been broken off, and so we plunged into five miles of the most diabolical mire ever invented. Hold on I did like grim death, but the missing guard would have been a great convenience. So at last we plunged into a complicated slough axle deep, and enriched with stumps and snags. I grabbed the blanket on the seat, and it gave way—a wild lurch to starboard, a long roll to port, and down I went, yelling like a demon, and rolled between the wagon box and the wheel, with my thigh hard jammed and the team jolting serenely on. Hastily considering that so accomplished a driver would not let his team run away, and that it was absolutely necessary to advise him of the facts, and express my feelings, I let loose a yell which is probably still ranging in echo up and down the woods. The driver clapped on the brakes and brought up the team on their haunches, thus saving me from amputation and a very disagreeable time generally; and I climbed up muddy and rueful into a back seat. Every time we came up out of some especially horrible mire the driver, blandly informed us that it would be much worse further on. And so it was. At the end of five miles we came to Pack River; the bridge was still there, and the water had gone down eight feet, but still the approach on the further side was a succession of ponds where, under placid muddy water, lurked pits wherein lay death and ruin. A number of wagons lay mired and abandoned along the road; and further on, the loads were piled up in the woods, while all available men were busy laying corduroy and trying to restore the place to a passable condition. After that the road was for the most part dry and hard, with deep ruts and plenty of stumps; about as bad as it could contrive to be, and yet we made good progress. At noon we dined at the Half-Way House, and at sundown, after thirty-two miles through the forest, came down with hot brakes a long and deep descent into the Kootenay Valley.

The Latest Political Scandal—Preparations for the Duke.

There is great tribulation at Ottawa over the result of the Nova Scotia elections.

D. Montgomery, Superintendent of Education for Prince Edward Island, is dead.

It is announced that Mr. Justice Johnston, Montreal, is about to be knighted by Her Majesty for his services rendered in Canadian legal and public life.

Edward Brown, wharfinger and coal merchant at Hamilton, died suddenly this morning from apoplexy. He formerly did a large vessel trade. He was seventy-two years old.

Joseph Young, book-keeper of the refinery of the Redpath Company, Montreal, has been missing since Monday. It has been rumored that a large shortage in his accounts has been discovered.

Deputy Wm. Smith, of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, who got four months leave of absence will be superannuated at the close of that time and C. C. Chipman, the private secretary to Hon. C. Tupper, will get his place.

A suite of staterooms on the Sardinian, due to leave Montreal on June 11th, has been engaged for the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and staff. The party will embark either at Quebec or Rimouski, proceeding there from Sir George Stephens' salmon stream. The suit of rooms engaged are the same as were fitted up for the Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise on the occasion of their last voyage from Canada.

Owing to the short stay which the Duke of Connaught and his party will make in Toronto, the grand ball which was being arranged by the Victoria Club has been cancelled. The party, it is expected, will only be in Toronto about eight hours on June 2nd, during which time they will hold a reception and attend dinner at Government House, to which some sixty leading citizens have been invited.

Another step has been taken in the latest scandal in the Conservative party. J. I. Tarte, editor of Le Canadien, entered in the Superior Court this morning an action against the Hon. Thomas McGreevy for the amount of $280,000. The plaintiff alleges that the member for Quebec West is unworthy of the seat he occupies in the House of Commons, that as defendant is a Government contractor he cannot legally hold in his seat in the House; and moreover that as defendant held his seat while not being in a condition required by a member to exercise his duties on an independent and disinterested way the plaintiff demands that a penalty of $280,000 be imposed on Hon. Thomas McGreevy for sitting in the House while disqualified. Action will be served on the latter tomorrow morning.

GOOD-BY.

There's a kind o' chilly feelin' in the blowin' o' the breeze,
And a sense o' sadness stealin' through the tresses o' the trees,
And a mist seems fallin' dreary on the mountains towerin' high,
And I feel my cheeks grow teary as I bid you all good-by!

"Good-by" the winds are sayin'; "good-by" the trees complain
As they bend low down an' whisper, with their green leaves wet with rain;
"Good-by" the roses murmur, an' the bendin' lilies sigh
As if they all felt sorry I have come—come to say good-by.

I reckon all have said it some time or other soft
And easy like, with eyes cast down, that dared not look aloft
For the tears that trembled in them—for the lips that choked the sigh,
When it came a-swellin' from the heart an' made it beat good-by!

I didn't think 'twas hard to say; but standin' here alone,
With the pleasant past behind me and the future dim, unknown,
A-gleamin' yonder in the dark—the tears come to my eye,
And I'm weepin' like a woman as I bid you all good-by.

The work I've done is with you; maybe some things went wrong,
Like a note that mars the music in the sweet flow of a song;
But, brethren, when you think of me I only ask you would Say as the Master said of one, "He hath done what he could."

And when you sit together in the time as yet to be,
By your love encircled firesides in the valleys fair and free,
Let the sweet past come before you, and with something like a sigh
Just say, "We ain't forgot him since the day he said 'Good-by!'"

—F. L. Stanton in Rome Tribune.

A Fiber from Chinese Grass.

Ramie, rhea or Chinese grass, is by no means a new discovery. It is the fiber of a species of nettle and has been used almost from time immemorial by the Chinese for the fabrication of light clothing, nets and lines. It was introduced into England about ninety years ago, receiving the commendation of the manufacturing institutes, and since that day efforts to make the fiber available to modern processes have not ceased. Not less than $1,000,000 has been sunk in unsuccessful attempts, some of which have produced cloths of beautiful texture and finish.—Boston Herald.

A Mathematical Demonstration.

Danvers—Come, Markham, surely you are not going to propose to that absurd Miss Leavenworth, are you?

Markham—Why, man, she has a dozen splendid farms out in Kansas.

Danvers—Yes; and she's at least forty-two.

Markham—Oh, you miss it by about fifteen summers, my boy.

Danvers—You are being deceived, old man—wofully. I heard her describing the fourteen year locusts; and she said nobody could tell her anything about them, because she had seen them three times.—Harper's Bazar.

Horrors of Pompeii.

But among all the beauties there are many horrors in Pompeii that leave lasting impressions. There are casts taken from the molds of ashes that incased the victims of the great catastrophe, showing their writhings and agonies as plainly as though they had just died. There are signs of the daily life that was being lived when the ashes began to fall; occupations half done and suspended in the awful moments when the danger became only too apparent.—Washington Star.

Soft Coal a Disinfectant.

The belief that smoke from soft coal may have beneficial sanitary effects is gaining ground. It is claimed that sulphur in the coal when burned becomes highly disinfectant. Further, that creosote and its allied products are thrown off with the fumes of bituminous coal, and that an atmosphere charged with carbonic acid must be freer from germs of disease than an apparently purer air.—New Orleans Picayune.

To Make Pulled Bread.

Pulled bread is liked particularly well by English people, we are told. They eat it with cheese. To make pulled bread, take a loaf of freshly baked bread, while it is still warm, pull the inside of it out in pieces the size of your hand and smaller, and put these into the oven and bake them to a delicate brown. When cool they are crisp and thought to be especially good with cheese.—New York Telegram.

About the Ear.

Ears vary greatly in form and size, and the peculiarities of shape they assume sometimes give an index to the character of the individual. Women have much better shaped ears than men. They are usually much smaller, and lie close to the head. Some people possess a singular muscular power over the ear, and can move the upper part at will, but it is rarely met with.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Our Dunces.

Among persons who have good cause to congratulate themselves that their lines have been cast in the "so called Nineteenth century" is our old friend the school boy dunce. Dunces are now going to be treated on scientific principles. Twenty or thirty years ago they were made to stand on a bench with a paper extinguisher on their heads as a sign of disgrace.—London Telegraph.

Strong Evidence.

"Young man," said the boarding mistress, sternly, "your comments are out of place. I made biscuits, sir, fifty years ago."

"Very likely," was the sinner's reply, adding in an undertone to his side partner, "and if circumstantial evidence goes for anything, this specimen I'm whetting my teeth on is one of 'em."—Philadelphia Times.

Giles—How did you manage to get your poem accepted by the new editor?

Tubbs—Told him the old editor had declined it.—Epoch.

THE VIRTUES OF APPLES.

Their Medicinal Value—and Some of the Troubles Which They Aid.

Chemically the apple is composed of vegetable fiber, albumen, sugar, gum, chlorophyll, malic acid, gallic acid, lime and much water. Furthermore, the German analysts say that the apple contains a larger percentage of phosphorus than any other fruit or vegetable. This phosphorus is admirably adapted for renewing the essential nervous matter, lethicin, of the brain and spinal cord. It is, perhaps, for the same reason, rudely understood, that old Scandinavian traditions represent the apple as the food of the gods, who, when they felt themselves to be growing feeble and infirm, resorted to this food for renewing their powers of mind and body. Also, the acids of the apple are of signal use for men of sedentary habits, whose livers are sluggish in action; these acids serving to eliminate from the body noxious matters which, if retained, would make the brain heavy and dull, or bring about jaundice or skin eruptions and other allied troubles.

Some such an experience must have led to our custom of taking apple sauce with roast pork, rich goose and like dishes. The malic acid of ripe apples, either raw or cooked, will neutralize any excess of chalky matter engendered by eating too much meat. It is also the fact that such fresh fruits as the apple, the pear and the plum, when taken ripe and without sugar, diminish acidity in the stomach rather than provoke it. Their vegetable salts and juices are converted into alkaline carbonates, which tend to counteract acidity.

A good, ripe, raw apple is one of the easiest of vegetable substances for the stomach to deal with, the whole process of its digestion being completed in eighty-five minutes. Gerrard found that the "pulps of roasted apples mixed in a wine quart of faire water, and labored together until it comes to be as apples and ale—which we call lambswool—never faileth in certain diseases of the raines, which myself hath often proved, and gained thereby both crowns and credit." "The paring of an apple, cut somewhat thick, and the inside whereof is laid to hot, burning or running eyes at night, when the party goes to bed, and is tied, or bound to the same, doth help the trouble very speedily, and contrary to expectation an excellent secret."

A poultice made of rotten apples is of very common use in Lincolnshire for the cure of weak or rheumatic eyes. Likewise in the Hotel des Invalides at Paris, an apple poultice is used commonly for inflamed eyes, the apple being roasted and its pulp applied over the eyes without any intervening substance. Long ago it was said apples are easily and speedily digested, and a modern maxim teaches that "If you eat an apple going to bed, the doctor then will beg his bread."—London Hospital.

What to Eat at Night.

The true course is to begin with just one or two mouthfuls the last thing before going to bed. And this should be light food, easily digested. No cake or pastry should be tolerated. One mouthful of cold roast beef, cold lamb, cold chicken and a little crust of bread will do to begin with, or, what is better yet, a spoonful or two of condensed milk (not the sweetened that comes in cans) in three times as much warm water. Into this cut half a pared peach and two or three little squares of bread, the whole to be one-fourth or one-sixth of what would be a light lunch.

Increase this very gradually, until at the end of a month or six weeks the patient may indulge in a bowl of milk, two peaches, with a half hard roll or a crust of home made bread. When peaches are gone take baked apples with the milk till strawberries come, and eat the latter till peaches return again. This is the secret of health and vitality. We often work until after midnight, but eating the comfortable meal is the last thing we do every night of the year. This is not an untried experiment or one depending on the testimony of a single witness.—American Analyst.

Birds That Appear to Reason.

Frank Buchland gives several curious instances of the special habits of some birds in procuring their food. The blackbirds, thrushes, etc., carry snails considerable distances for the purpose of breaking their shells against some rock or stone. Thomas Edward, the Scottish naturalist, describes gulls and ravens flying to a great height with crab or other shellfish, and letting them fall on stones in order to smash the shells; and, if they do not break on the first attempt, he says they pick them up again and carry them yet higher, repeating the operation again and again till the shell is broken. Ravens often resort to this contrivance. Darwin tells of a bird having been repeatedly seen to hop on a poppy stem, and shake the head with his bill till many seeds were scattered, when it sprang to the ground and ate up the seeds.—Month.

A Thought for Aspiring M. D.'s.

Professor Buchanan, of the Glasgow university, has just made a statement which should "give pause" to parents who think of making doctors of their sons. Speaking at the opening of the medical session of the Glasgow university, he declared that of every hundred young men who entered the medical classes with a view to qualifying in surgery and medicine only one of that original hundred issued from the ordeal of study and examination a full blown medical man. One per cent.—London Tit-Bits.

The Requisites of a Husband.

A certain pretty little girl, with great big serious blue eyes, was telling her companion on the street car why she was going to marry George. "You see, Maime," she said, "George is awfully good looking; he always sends me flowers when we go to the theatre; he never seems to be so shockingly busy, don't you know; he's got plenty of money, and he does just like I tell him." Prospective husbands, there is a catalogue of the requisites.—Memphis Times.

WORSE AND WORSE—AN IMBECILE GOVERNMENT.

The Colonist publishes the Order-in-Council which pretends to authorize records to be made of mineral claims in the railway belt without the payment of $105 for the land, as the ROBSON amendment to the Railway Act of last session provides. It is claimed that this Order-in-Council is passed under the authority of Section 47 of the Revenue Act, which the organ quotes and which gives the Lieut.-Governor-in-Council power to remit a tax.

But the $105 is not a tax; it is a sum named by the Dominion Government as payment for the land. The ROBSON Government did not consider it a tax when they passed the law, saying that $105 must be paid at the time a record of a mining claim is made. A tax can only be imposed by message from the Lieutenant-Governor. (Vide the 54th section of the Imperial Act, 30 Vic. chap 3, known as the British North America Act, 1867.)

The Mining Act of last session was not introduced by Message, and the condition as to the payment of $105 was put into the Bill on motion by the Attorney-General. The Order-in-Council is not worth the paper it is written upon. Any person recording a mining claim in the Railway Belt, who does not comply with the Mining Act of last session, his record will be of no value, as against a person who complied with the condition the law imposes. This single transaction of the Government should be sufficient to condemn it. Not content with blundering in passing the law they blunder further by passing an Order-in-Council, claiming to repeal the error, but which Order-in-Council is not worth the paper it is written upon.

The Lieut.-Governor should dismiss an Attorney-General who advises him to be party to such nonsense.

We should not be surprised to hear the organ say to-morrow that the Imperial statute, "The British North America Act," has been repealed by one of Mr. THEO. DAVIE'S Orders-in-Council. This is a fair sample of the manner in which the business of the country is carried on by the present imbecile Government.

INDEPENDENT SUPPORTERS."

Among the misleading expressions which the exigencies of the campaign have developed, that of an "independent supporter of the Government" is the most conspicuous, and at the same time, unfortunately, is, in the estimation of the unsophisticated elector, a seemingly patriotic declaration. We would say to the electors, however, that there cannot be in the nature of things any such thing as an independent supporter of the government in relation to contemporary matters at issue. A candidate in dealing with questions of the present must be either for or against them. All living questions require that the candidate assent to them or dissent from them, and in so doing he necessarily identifies himself with the party which represents these questions. Thus, "National Policy" is a living question. It is the great salient feature which distinguishes Conservatism from Liberalism, and the political aspirant in announcing his position must declare himself for or against it. If he accepts it, he virtually surrenders his independence because he has accepted that which is vital. If he rejects it, he identifies himself with the opposition, because he has rejected that which is vital. A Conservative who is not a National Policyist is of no value to the party. The Liberal who accepts the doctrine of protection is no Liberal, however strongly he may be in accord with his party in other matters. In regard to all straight issues a man must be either one thing or the other. When he speaks of independence he must have reference only to contingencies that may arise and in this respect independence is no virtue. The electorate expect him to exercise a wise discretion in such matters without regard to party affiliations. The general lines of party policy cannot differ widely one from the other. Parties are distinguished chiefly by some one paramount feature of policy, in which vast interests are involved, something upon which their very existence hinges, and no man has value to that party, or to his own constituents for that matter, who does not endorse its paramount feature of policy. A man announces himself an independent supporter of Sir JOHN MACDONALD. What does this mean? It means that if he supports "National Policy" he is no longer independent. While on the other hand if he rejects it, having rejected the very feature by which Sir JOHN proposes to stand or fall, he becomes one of the Opposition. Independent support of the Government has a very pretty sound, but there is really nothing in it. It is a term which may be used with reference to future contingencies, but not with regard to the living issues of the present. In all matters of dispute a man must be one thing or the other, and so he who attempts to slide into office on that well-worn old hack "independent support of the Government," either does not know what he is about, or so takes the position that he may make a deal with the opposing parties to the best personal advantage.

"A CANDID NOVICE."

We are afraid, very much afraid, that our "Cambie Street contemporary," the Vancouver News, will, unless it quits politics, degenerate into a sort of journalistic DIOGENES. It is true that its cynicism has none of the grim flavor of the gentleman who perambulated the streets of Athens in broad daylight with a lighted lantern in his hand in search of an honest man, still it is a pungent cynicism, as necessarily it must be, to penetrate the thick cuticles of the parties whom it is directed against. And what adds piquancy to the thing is that nobody suspected that our "Cambie street contemporary" was capable of it. Of course we all knew he could "get there" if he wanted to, but we did not suppose that he wanted to. The impression had gone forth that in his mental composition there was just enough of the sodden Tory leaven to prevent him from grinding out other than the most respectably prosaic Tory stuff. The political crisis, however, engendered by the Robsonian idea of "balance of power," seems to have transformed what promised to be a highly respectable Conservative into an incisive though genial Radical, and in "a Candid Novice," we have one of his best efforts in this role.

According to the good-natured but somewhat incisive cynic on Cambie street, the "Candid Novice," besides passing triumphantly through the ordeal of the grippe has cut his eye teeth. In other words the "Candid Novice" has discovered that a "generous but independent support of the Government" is no good; that he who presumes on such a role on the floor of the Senate house at Ottawa is liable to suffer from neglect and his constituents from appropriations. We quote:

"I am convinced," says Mr. EARLE, "that under a system of party Government, there is not and cannot be any such thing as independence. A man must ally himself with one or other of the parties in the House; otherwise he will have no influence and his usefulness would be gone. I admit" continued Mr. EARLE, "that to be a party man it is necessary for one to occasionally swallow one's own views." But then that should not be considered when after the dose of medicine comes a lump of sugar in the way of a good appropriation for local purposes."

"We wish," comments the News, "that we could give Mr. EARLE'S reminiscences in full. They are clearly those of a thoughtful man, whose joyous expectancy of founding a new party was quickly and suddenly quenched as soon as he took his seat in the House." His sketch of the "Independent," trotting backwards and forwards, first on one side of the House and then on the other, and winding up with the remark that "the middleman is nowhere and is utterly devoid of influence," is inimitably pathetic," etc.

We cannot improve on the exquisite satire with which the News treats the ingenuous confessions of a "Candid Novice," and indeed we would not, if we could; the subject is one which requires treatment in a more serious strain. In the confession of a "Candid Novice," we are made painfully aware that there is nothing to justify Sir CHARLES DILKE'S remark that Canadian politics is conducted on a higher plane than that in the neighboring republic. The mighty farce which is yearly played in the Senate house is laid bare before us. We discover that no Canadian without the grossest Pharisaism can say to other legislative bodies, "we are holier than thou." But was not Mr. EARLE aware when he offered himself on the altar of public interests, that an Independent among Tories would feel that sense of loneliness which a cat in a strange garret is said to experience? Was he not aware that the party with whom he was to mix would require of him to swallow "one's own views?" Truly, if Mr. EARLE was not aware of as much he was unsophisticated indeed. But was Mr. EARLE bound to submit to such conditions? We, of course, know that politics is compromise, that further, compromise extends to all the avocations of life, but here is this instance we are given to understand that a distinct surrender of one's principles is necessary to obtain for one's constituents what is justly due them. This is abominable. We are of the opinion that if Mr. EARLE had given the oligarchs to understand that he was an Independent, and that should contumely, and, neglect, and disregard for the public interests intrusted to his care eventuate on the strength of it, he should appeal to his constituents, there would have been a stir in Government circles in no slight degree edifying to honest men. The experiment of this kind of independence, at all events, was worth trying. Mr. EARLE, to-day, would stand higher with his constituents had he tried it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

SIR FRED, it is said, refuses to resign and declares that in the event of the Government forcing him to do so he will a tale unfold which will make things very uncomfortable for members of the Cabinet and of the Government generally, for whose debts he is neither morally nor legally responsible. And Sir FRED is quite right. If certain officials are partners with the gallant general in his looting of BREMNER'S furs, the fact should not only be made public, but they should be made to resign as well as Sir FRED. On the whole we are inclined to think that Sir FRED is more guilty of indiscretion than of venality, and we admire his pluck in refusing to become a black sheep for the worthless gang of political parasites which are just now the feature at Ottawa. Sir FRED MIDDLETON is quite right in proposing to drag down with him the worthless gang who shared his plunder. They ought to have the manhood to step up and offer to pay their share.

WHAT NEXT?

TO THE EDITOR,—In perusing your edition of the 24th ult. I was rather amused to observe an item on page 7 to the effect that the Rev. Mr. Loug, a young Methodist missionary, had travelled all the way from Burmah to Seattle in order to obtain some means to counteract the teachings of Robert G. Ingersoll, as some of his pamphlets have been translated into that language and has been read with pleasure by the learned class of that country. Now, in order to see what pernicious effects this class of literature is likely to produce in Burmah, we will take one of the many pamphlets or leaflets that has been translated, and is entitled, "Happiness for All," into six paragraphs to be the more easily understood.

1. Happiness is the only good.
2. The way to be happy is to make others happy, other things being equal that man is the happiest who is nearest just who is truthful, merciful and intelligent; in other words the man who lives in accordance with the conditions of life.
3. The time to be happy is now, and the place to be happy is here.
4. Reason is the lamp of the mind—the only torch of progress and instead of blowing that out and depending upon darkness and dogma it is far better to increase that light.
5. Every man should be the intellectual proprietor of himself, honest with himself and intellectually hospitable; and upon every brain reason should be enthroned as king.
6. Every man must bear the consequences, at least of his own actions. If he put his hand in the fire his hand must smart, and not the hands of another. In other words each man must eat the fruit of the tree he plants.

Here then is a specimen of the teachings of that great orator, Ingersoll, utterly antagonist to the missionary in Burmah to counteract he has traveled from Burmah to Seattle to obtain mean, etc.

To any intelligent thinker these writings contain nothing offensive to either the Christian, Buddha, Brahmin, or in fact any other doctrine, but only aims at a higher teaching of the people of all classes and countries.

METHODIST CONFERENCE.

THE ORDINATION CEREMONY ON SUNDAY.

Sermon by Rev. Joseph Hall—Sunday Desecration by Large Transportation Companies—The Running of Pleasure Boats and Sunday Excursions.

ORDINATION SERVICE.

SUNDAY, May 25.—A large congregation gathered in the Homer Street Church this morning to hear the sermon and witness the ordination of the probationers for the Methodist ministry who had been received into full connexion on Friday evening. On the platform were Rev. C. Bryant, President of Conference; Rev. Jos. Hall, ex-president, and Rev. Jas. H. White, Secretary. The service opened with singing of the 109th Hymn, after which Rev. Mr. Hall led the congregation in prayer. The whole congregation then sang Hymn 904.

Rev. J. Hall, who preached the Ordination sermon, announced as his text, Jeremiah, vi., 16, and spoke substantially as follows: Jeremiah's life was cast in troublous times. His work as a prophet required him to rebuke the ungodliness of the day. It would seem as though he had little natural qualification. But God who looks at the heart had called him to do this work. His ministry awakened the opposition of his community and he endeavored to excuse himself from this responsibility, and this exactly illustrates the human nature of to-day. God raises up to His work whom He will. It is the church's duty to examine those in whom these qualifications reside and pronounce upon the fitness of these men for the work. God often disappoints men in this particular and raises up those whom men look upon as too weak and incompetent to do the work. In view of these circumstances Jeremiah in the text exhorts the Jews to seek for the good old way, the immutable principle of God's direction in the earth. The Jews are troubled and full of unrest and Jeremiah calls on them to halt and examine their circumstances and find the cause for this state of affairs. The text is a piece of instruction of importance in all times and condition of life. It is always wise to examine and be constantly satisfied as to the security of the ground he stands upon. His review of the history of the past will always exhibit the circumstances under which God has blessed his work. A review of the history of the church will show that under the most glowing circumstances the truth of God will always triumph. The surroundings and discouragements of the Apostles was cited as an example of this. For 250 years the early Christians had no temples in which to worship, yet as witnesses of the resurrection they went forth assured that the truth would triumph. The speaker spoke of the days of Luther, and followed history down to the time of John Wesley, showing the lack of Christian life and the widespread depravity of those days. But under God Wesley set on foot saving agencies that are purifying earth and gladdening heaven. There is scarcely a place in Christendom that is not touched and made better by the power of that church government and method that is designated Methodism. Speaking briefly upon much of the successes that have advanced Methodism, he said, he wished to emphasize the things that have made us what we are. Our relation to the Word of God. He deplored the tendencies in some quarters to discard the sacred book. He deplored the day when there would be an indifference to the purity of its teachings. He quoted from John Wesley's confessions as to the value of the book of God. Reading such words as these we read the source and life and fountain of John Wesley's mighty power. A return to the Bible has been the secret of every marked revolution in the moral history of any people. He urged upon his hearers to be Bible students, and so much so as to be Bible Christians. The influx of population into this country has a tendency to induce a careless indifference as to its teachings. The race for riches crowds out time for its study, but he prayed God to save us from departure from its teachings. Prayerfulness and personal consecration were urged upon all present.

The choir then sang in fine voice "Guide me, O Thou Great Jehovah," and the Conference proceeded to the ordination.

Rev. Jas. H. White, Secretary of the Conference, then introduced Robert J. Irwin and Matthew J. Stevens, and Rev. C. Bryant, President, assisted by Rev. J. Hall, Ex-President, and by Revs. C. Ladner, Thos. Crosby, and E. Robson, proceeded according to the disciplinary form. Rev. J. E. Starr preached in the evening to a large congregation, after which the communion of the Lord's Supper was partaken of, and the meeting dismissed.

MORNING SESSION.

Monday, May 26.—Conference opened this morning after the excessive labors of yesterday, somewhat slimly attended, but as the session progressed the members gathered in. The secretary read the minutes of the previous session, which were adopted, when the conference proceeded to routine work.

The report of the committee on Sabbath observance was again heard. It was adopted. Following are some of its features. It expresses gratitude that in many of the cities and rural districts the Lord's day is observed much better than formerly, but it deplores the violation of the rest of that day by the large companies, such as the C.P.R. Company and the C.P.N. Company, the E. & N. Railroad Company, and others, in handling freight, etc., at their wharves and trains. Recommend the appointment of a committee to communicate with these companies, and urge a better observance of the day of rest. It also expresses much regret that pleasure boats and excursion parties are run on Sundays, contrary to the sentiment of the Word of God. In the adoption of the report the conference appointed the following gentlemen to act upon the committee spoken of: Revs. C. Bryant, J. H. White, E. Robson and Messrs. J. Shannon, Jas Cunningham and D. Spencer.

The resolution of Thursday, respecting attendance at college, of Rev. R. S. Beavis, was received.

Owing to the exigencies of the Indian work up North it was decided that Mr. Beavis could not be spared from the Conference.

Rev. S. J. Thompson moved, and Rev. C. Ladner seconded, the following resolution, which was adopted with much expression of feeling:

"Whereas, we have heard with profound feelings of regret that our beloved brother, Rev. William Pollard, who in age and feebleness extreme is awaiting his Master's call to the higher service and glorious reward of eternal rest, we, his brethren in Conference assembled, extend to him our heartfelt sympathy and pledge him our fervent prayers for the sustaining grace of God, our Father, in the declining days of life, that he may consciously realize that 'underneath are the everlasting arms.'"

Rev. E. Robson then introduced the following resolution, seconded by Rev. Jos. Hall:

"Resolved, that we request the General Conference to so amend the ritual for the Lord's Supper as to provide that the posture occupied by communicants shall be that of a sitting posture instead of kneeling as more in harmony with the origin and spirit of the institution."

The resolution elicited much discussion and was unanimously carried.

Before adjourning the President of Conference presented to Mr. Ernest Robson an envelope containing a substantial recognition of his services as Conference postmaster.

The Conference then adjourned till 2 o'clock.

TRAIN'S TRIP.

Around the World in 67 1-2 Days—The Citizen at Home Again.

TACOMA, May 24.—At 1:30 this afternoon, a special train consisting of two cars pulled out of the Seventeeth street depot with the members of the Chamber of Commerce and city council on board, to meet George Francis Train at Chehalis and accompany him back to the city. As soon as the citizen was espied at Chehalis emerging from the train, with his double-decker and white duck suit, accompanied by Kodiaker Wall, the Tacoma delegates sent up a tremendous shout. He was soon aboard the special surrounded by many admirers, and the start was made for Tacoma. Cheer after cheer went up for the Citizen and the success of the trip.

He quietly waved his hand and indicated that he wanted to be heard, and for the next hour, with the special running at a 40-mile gate, the atmosphere of the car was made sulphurous by his denunciation of the treatment received at the hands of the Northern Pacific officials in not furnishing a special train from Chicago to Tacoma.

Train broke forth in one of his outbursts of half-insane fury, and completely paralyzed the crowd which had gone forth to welcome his return.

"Yes," he said, "I was promised a special train, and when I reached New York I found that no arrangements had been made for me—not even a telegram to welcome me. I paid $1000 out of my own pocket for a special over the New York Central.

"The whole damned Northern Pacific road is one gigantic corporation, aimed at the vitals of Tacoma.

"Who is C. B. Wright? He has gone broke, and the Tacoma Land Company will go with him.

"Tacoma is dead. The great Vanderbilt system, combined with the Union Pacific, will make Astoria, on the Columbia, the great city of the Pacific Northwest. Your Northern Pacific road has strangled you."

Mr. Train was so bitter in his denunciation of the treatment he had received at New York and en route, that he became furious and could hardly be pacified. He complained particularly of the tardy action of the citizens of Tacoma in not taking more interest in his trip and properly providing for suitable accommodations upon arriving at New York. The citizen became quiet as the train approached the city, and branched off on a commonplace topic.

He was received at the depot by a multitude of people, and amid the booming of cannon escorted to the Ledger office, where the trip around the world was ended in 67 days, 13 hours, 3 minutes and 3 seconds.

While Citizen Train was at Huntington, Ore., he was robbed of $300, all he had, and refused to eat, not touching a morsel of food since leaving that place.

Train claims that adverse circumstances delayed him, and he will make the trip again, starting in September in fifty days.

The editor of the Salt Lake Times said in an interview with a Chicago reporter that the Mormons were gradually deserting Utah Territory, and that before long all those who desire to practice polygamy will be gone. They are slipping away quietly, and it is believed that some 2000 families have left within the last two years. A Mormon syndicate has bought an immense tract of land in the State of Chihuahua, Mex., and many have gone thither. It is information like this that arouses suspicion as to the character of the Mormon colony in our Northwest.

One good result comes of the Bremner investigation if it leads to the appointment of a Canadian as General Middleton's successor, says the Globe. There is not the slightest necessity for the British Government to send out an Imperial officer to take the command of our militia. There are a dozen Canadians much better qualified to discharge the duties of the office than an English commander can possibly be. The methods that prevail in the British army do not apply to our citizen soldiery, and there is no reason why we should continue to place an office that has become little more than a well paid sinecure at the disposal of the Imperial authorities.

BUSINESS IS BUSINESS.

A YOUNG MAN ADOPTED THE ABOVE AS A MOTTO AND GOT RICH.

"Men Don't Do What They Like; They Do What They Can"—This Young Man Understood Pickles, and Into Pickles He Went—Good Advice.

There lives in the city of New York a man who has accumulated quite a fortune by simply advising people what to do. There always will be a large number of persons who are unable to rely on their own judgment; others come to a conclusion with ease and certainty.

A young man had accumulated a thousand dollars, and was debating whether he should buy a small candy store with it, or whether he should lend it on a mortgage. This latter he knew was the secure way; the other promised great profits. In this perplexity he saw an advertisement, "Advice given to those going into business."

After stating his case the counselor said: "My fee will be $5 in advance."

When this was paid he asked: "Do you understand the candy business?"

"No; I did not think it was necessary I expect to supervise it generally."

"Then you will lose all your money in three months."

"You think I had better lend the money on the mortgage?"

"I do not say that. What is your business; that is, what do you perfectly understand?"

"I know the pickle business through and through. I can make pickles of all kinds, but I do not like it."

"Never mind what you like. Go and get a small place and make pickles; go from hotel to hotel, restaurant to restaurant, and sell them. In ten years come back and see me; you will have $10,000 at least."

As the young man was going away he was called back.

"Here is a card. I want you to put it where you can see it a hundred times a day." These were the words on the card: "Business is business. Men don't do what they like, they do what they can."

THE FASCINATING CARD.

The card had a strange fascination for him; he read it with care as he walked along the street. As he studied it, new light seemed to enter his mind.

He found a dingy basement, and began to arrange for his operations. Of course vinegar must be got, several barrels of it; some was offered him at ten cents a gallon, some more was shown at five cents. "Which shall I take?" He thought of the words on his card. He seemed to see people testing his pickles, and, not liking them, depart without buying. "They will know good vinegar," thought he, and so he bought the honest stuff.

In a few days several tubs of materials were ready, and he knew he must market them. Now he greatly dreaded to face strange people and push his goods upon their notice. He never had courage when a boy, and now as a young man he felt more timid it seemed. But he thought of the words of the card, and entered a restaurant. The evident manager was a blooming young woman, and the pickle dealer was more afraid of women than men. But "business is business" repeated itself over and over in his mind.

The answer to his statement was that his pickles would be tried, and, if found all right, would be purchased.

"Glad I got that good vinegar," thought the young man; and he began to feel that there was a certain power in the maxim his adviser had given. He began to feel a courage he had never expected in meeting people and trying to sell his goods to them.

Calling at a store to get, if possible, an order for pickles in bottles, he was quickly and rudely met with, "Don't want to see any such stuff." Noticing the utter dismay on the young man's face, the merchant said, short and sharp: "Don't you know enough of business to put up your goods attractively?"

As he retreated, ruffled and disheartened, the maxim repeated itself over and over with this additional sentence: "It is business to put up goods attractively." He sought out a lithographer and had some handsomely colored labels printed. "They will buy the bottles," said the friend, "just for the picture you have on them."

APPRECIATED ADVICE.

When he had gained sufficient courage he again sought out the merchant who had rebuffed him. "I have come to make you a present of a bottle of fine pickles."

"Why do you make me a present of them?"

"Because you gave me advice that was worth a great deal."

The morning of one Fourth of July came, and he pondered whether to go to his store or not. All at once he thought, people going on picnics will want pickles. It was the magic words on the little card that ran through his mind. He found, as he had thought, a large number of buyers waiting for him.

The little card was consulted in all sorts of weather. If a man made a proposition to him of any kind, and he was in doubt, he would go and look at the words, though he knew them by heart already. One day a cheese merchant came to persuade him to buy his stock.

"People," said he, "who buy pickles always buy cheese; you will do a big trade." It was a temptation. He went and looked at the words and studied them intently, trying to think out their application to the case in hand. "Men do what they can," he reflected. "I would like to sell cheese, but I know I can sell pickles:" then he returned. Now he was resolute and firm, although by nature easily bent and swayed by the words of others.

"Business is business," he said. "I am in the pickle business; if I cannot make money in this I shall quit and go into something else; but I shall not have two kinds on my hands."

When the ten years were up of course he had the $10,000, and more.—Treasure Trove.

MANY THINGS THAT ARE EATEN.

Living Crabs in China and Roasted Spiders in New Caledonia.

If you should travel round the world, you would learn to eat your dinner in a good many different ways. In Turkey you would learn to sit on the floor crossed legged, and eat your dinner off a round tray without knives or forks, plates, glasses or napkins. All the guests eat with their fingers out of the same dish. If you dined with the Arabs you would see no knives or forks, and if your host offered you a choice bit of meat, you would be expected to open your mouth and let him put it in.

The Arabs use only the right hand in eating, and, what is still more funny, they will pull apart or carve turkeys or fowls with only one hand and without a knife. If it is hard to separate, one of the guests will lend his right hand. In Siam you would be treated to ant's eggs; and in Burmah to locusts stuffed and fried.

All young folks would like to eat in Japan, for they serve candies and sweet things very often, and what you don't eat you are expected to take home. At grand feasts guests are expected to bring servants with baskets to take home the leavings. In Abyssinia it is a mark of good breeding to smack the lips while eating; and I'm sure you'll not be surprised to hear that they eat their meat raw. In South America you would eat snakes and lizards; and among our American Indians you would be treated to grasshoppers. In Otaheite you would eat your dinner alone, from a basket, and if you were in the fashion you would turn your back to everybody while eating. Snails and horseflesh would greet you in France. But the funniest dish you would see, I guess, would be in China, where they serve up little crabs—alive! Just as they sit down to dinner the tiny crabs are put in a dish of vinegar, which makes them very lively. Then they are put in a covered dish and placed on the table. When everyone is ready the cover is snatched off, and instantly the table is covered with scampering crablets, running for their lives.

In New Caledonia they serve up spiders. Horrid! you say. Well, it does seem disgusting to us, but people who have eaten them say they are delicious.

Some people add caterpillars to their dainties. Would you fancy eating roasted ants by the handfuls? They taste like sweetened cream, so travelers say. I never tried them. But really, when you come to think of it, none of those insects, that we consider so horrible and disgusting, look any worse than lobsters and crabs which we eat freely. It is a matter of fashion, like digging up a centipede eighteen inches long, in India, and eating it like a stick of candy, as the children do there, according to Humbert.—Pansy.

Gossip About Oscar Wilde.

Oscar Wilde is certainly the most charming conversationalist in all England, and if he is particularly eloquent upon any one subject that one subject is "reading in bed." He says that for years he has been addicted to this fascinating habit; that he reads himself to sleep, and that as soon as he wakes in the morning he reaches for his book. "The habit grows on me. Often I find myself disposed to lie abed all day, reading. I read with amazing rapidity. When I was a boy at school I was looked upon as a prodigy by my associates, because, quite frequently, I would, for a wager, read a three volume novel in half an hour so closely as to be able to give an accurate resume of the plot of the story; by one hour's reading I was enabled to give a fair narrative of the incidental scenes and the most pertinent dialogue."—London Letter to Chicago News.

A Queen a Voluntary Slave.

Hester Cora Mitchell, as she is known here, after becoming the slave of ex-Governor Mitchell, is buried in the cemetery in this city. She was a queen of some African tribe, and came to this country voluntarily, bringing with her all the insignia of her royalty—crowns and robes and jewels, etc. She was pleased with this country, and resolved to lay down her robes of royalty and become a slave, as above stated. Every Christmas, until her death, she would appear before the negroes in all the gorgeousness of her queenly paraphernalia. After this exhibition she would retire, lay aside her queenly attire, and go into the kitchen as humbly as any of the other servants of Governor Mitchell. When Hester Cora died, Governor Mitchell had her buried in her regalia.—Milledgeville Chronicle.

Honesty of Women.

"Did you ever know a woman fail to return a borrowed umbrella?" asked a dealer in these articles, addressing a reporter.

"I can't say I ever did."

"Nobody else ever did," said the dealer, emphatically. "I have been a long time in the business of selling them, and I have made a special study of woman in connection with the borrowed umbrella phase of social ethics, and I have yet to learn of a case in which she has abused the confidence reposed in her when she was lent an umbrella to protect herself when she was caught in a sudden shower. She either returns it in person or sends it with verbal or a pretty note of thanks at the first opportunity."—Boston [illegible]

An Epigram by Holmes.

One of the choicest relics of the Bohemian club of San Francisco is a little piece of paper—a telegraphic message—framed under glass. It is the response of our genial Autocrat to a greeting sent to him by wire during one of the dinners of the club, which arrived so late in Boston that it found the doctor in bed. He was equal to the occasion, however, and immediately replied as follows:

Message from San Francisco, whisper low—
In bed, asleep, an hour or more ago.
While on his peaceful pillow he reclines—
Say to the friends who sent these loving lines:
Silent, unanswering, still to friendship true,
He smiles in slumber, for he dreams of you.

CITY AND PROVINCIAL.

THAT DOCTORED TELEGRAM.

The Photographic Camera Proves that a False Report was Issued.

A photograph of the original telegram sent to the board of school trustees at Wellington by Mr. S. D. Pope, Superintendent of Education, has been made. The camera cannot falsify, and the pictured despatch reads:

"Victoria, Aug. 12, 1889.

"Joseph Ellick, Secty. Board of Trustees, Wellington.

"Miss Ramsay cannot draw salary for Wellington until commencement of active services. You have no authority to appoint substitute Principal by using monitors can take charge of whole school until arrival of assistance.

"S. D. Pope,
"Supt. of Education."

The copy of this telegram as published in the report of the committee appointed to look into school matters, contains eleven more words than the original, and the difficulty seems to be for the Government, or at least that part of it which runs school matters, to explain just how these eleven words got there. They are not in the original, as a glance at the photographs will show. A photograph can be seen at the TIMES office.

FROM THE LOWER KOOTENAY.

Mr. Joshua Davies Returns to Victoria—A Rich Country—Bad Roads.

Last evening Mr. Joshua Davies of this city returned from a trip to the Lower Kootenay district. Mr. Davies left Victoria the 13th of May, and since his departure has travelled over a deal of the interior country.

On leaving here he first went to Spokane Falls, and he expresses much surprise at the tremendous growth of that city. Large brick blocks are everywhere to be seen, and along the river front is over a mile and a quarter of brick buildings from four to seven stories in height. The city of Spokane, Mr. Davies considers, has a fortune in its inexhaustible water supply, which provides the power for electric lighting, mills, street cars, etc.

Leaving Spokane Mr. Davies went to Kootenai, Idaho, and from there on to Nelson City. He says the roads are something awful, being barely passable. A light stage with six horses attached had very hard work to get along, and the shipment of goods was a great task. This lack of transportation facilities is the greatest drawback to the country, and the throwing out of the charter of the Spokane Northern has been the means of putting the country back several years. As it is now, the natural road and outlet is south, and the people of Spokane are improving this fact by furnishing nearly all supplies going into the lower Kootenay region.

Mr. Davies reports that new discoveries of high class are being made daily, and some specimens of native silver which he has brought down shows how rich the mines must be in that section of the Province. Could these acres be shipped to business places at anything like reasonable rates, mining would take a great boom. The Local Government, in the fullness of its heart, has set aside $5000 to be expended on roads for each camp, when the very least amount that ought to have been provided should have been $15,000.

Work on the Nelson and Sproat's Landing Railroad, is being pushed rapidly and the contractors will rush things to a completion. This road, Mr. Davies says, although it will be of great help to the country will only be open about six months in the year. Nelson City requires goods and supplies, and unless the capitalists of Victoria get in and make a bid for the trade, and try and do something toward getting better roads, the trade will surely be diverted to other channels, as it is now, it is only the duty that saves the trade for this side at all. The United States customs have lately had considerable bother, but an officer, Mr. Dolan, has now been placed at Kootenay, Idaho. Before this it was a great trouble to get goods through. A sawmill ordered by Mr. Davies came over the N. P. R. R. and was taken on to Tacoma, the shippers having billed it to Nelson City via Tacoma. It required the personal intervention of Secry Windom to enable this freight to clear for Nelson City, it having originally came from Eastern Canada.

Mr. Davies speaking of the mining prospects, said that Dr. Hendry has gone to St. Paul to bring out a smelter. The doctor has been taking out $2000 worth of ore a day for nearly a month past, and when he gets the smelter going, he will probably get back a return for the large amount of money he has laid out. The Blue Bell mine is in 700 feet and one hundred feet down. The vein is 80 feet 9 inches in width, and the ore is 80 per cent. lead, with no rock or detritus. It assays from $12 to $15 per ton silver. Altogether the outlook in the district is most brilliant, and if roads were only put in the enormous wealth of Kootenay would soon be poured out to the great benefit of all commercial centers.

Big Bet.

A wager has been made between Dr. H. B. Bagley of Seattle, and several Tacoma men of $5000 a side. The Seattle doctor bets that his city has 10,000 more population than Tacoma, and the other fellows bet it hasn't.

He Handed it Over.

Last night about 11 o'clock two young men, evidently strangers in the city, were noticed running about the streets in a frantic manner. On investigation it was found that one of them had lent a friend $500 to gamble with. The "friend" won $300 with the borrowed money and instead of returning the $500 he appropriated the whole amount to himself and would undoubtedly have left for a more congenial climate this morning if had not been caught by his victim, and besides having to divulge the $500 he was also "bluffed" into handing over half of his winnings.

Never Here Before.

Some of the most unique designs in spring cloth, for gentlemen's wear. New line of spring suitings, displayed for first time in Victoria by Campbell & Simpkins, the fashionable Government street Tailors.

The Louvre.

On Johnson street, is the place to go for a fine glass of beer at 5 cents. A short order lunch counter attached. Open day and night.

Got Disgusted.

The only freight that came down by the Yosemite last evening was a lot of farming implements, household goods, etc., which belong to a farmer who had his farm flooded by the Fraser. The farmer becoming disgusted, "picked up his bed and walked," and will settle on the Island, where there are no overflowing rivers to bother him.

From Old to New.

The old Royal Hospital at the head of Pandora Avenue was vacated to-day, and the property formally handed over to the purchasers. It was established sixteen years ago.

The building committee of the new hospital will hold their last meeting on Friday. On Saturday the new committee will take possession under the act passed at the last session of the legislature.

Think it Over.

That was a hard hit an irreverent voter gave to a politician who was a strict church member when he asked: "You think more of your politics than you do of your religion, don't you?" "Why?" said the religious politician. "Because you have often asked me to vote for you, and for your party ticket, but you have never asked me join or attend your church." There is something in this to set some political church members to thinking.

Blood Must Flow.

An Ottawa dispatch says: Senator McDonald, of Victoria, B. C., states that Canadian sealers will ignore the action of American executive officers. The Canadian sealing fleet, he says, started on its annual hunt January last. They go down the coast of far as San Francisco, following the seals north, picking them up as they go along. They will go into Behring Sea, as they consider that they have a perfect right to do so. He has all along thought that the whole matter would be brought to maturity by some act of bloodshed.

Notes of the Duke's Journey.

On the arrival of the Duke of Connaught's special at Glacier Saturday, Mr. Clements of Vancouver, who is superintending the building of the addition to the Glacier House, was approached by an unassuming looking gentleman, who greeted him with "Where's the Glacier?" Pointing to it, Mr. Clements answered, "There, where's the Duke?" "I am the Duke," was the reply. (Tableau.)

The Duke's special made the fastest time on record up the "big hill," making the run from Field to Hector in seventeen minutes, or at the rate of over twenty-eight miles an hour, which is not bad on an up-grade of four and a half feet in the hundred.

Ladner's Landing.

The twenty-fourth was celebrated here in the usual way. There was a good programme of athletic sports, boat races, quoit match, etc., but the great attraction was the promenade concert rendered by the Delta Brass Band, who under the skillful and painstaking tuition of Bandmaster T. W. Harris after only three months training, rendered in perfect style and to the immense delight of all present, a programme of 10 pieces. During the day the band were banquetted at the Delta Hotel, Mr. McNeely, the host, giving them a rare feed. The day's festivities closed with a ball at the town hall in the evening.

A good opportunity was offered to sound parties from the surrounding municipalities as to election news. The general impression seems to be that Mr. Robson will be re-elected, and the cheek of Herring and Sinclair from Westminster city offering themselves in the district is to be offset by the nomination of Mr. Steele of Chewasen for Westminster city.

For the Dominion election, undoubtedly W. H. Ladner will be returned, as he is well known as a public man, whilst Mr. Corbould has never held any public office.

Crops are looking well, and seeding is finished. The canneries are busy making cans.

Development of B. C. Fisheries.

Mr. A. Begg of crofter fame is preparing the prospectus of a joint stock company which includes a great many points of importance to British Columbia. The proposed company will require a capital of at least $150,000. It is being formed for the purpose of developing the fisheries along the seaboard of this Province, either by salting, smoking, drying, packing in ice, canning, or otherwise preparing edible fishes for market, and making oil and guano from fish offal and non-curable fish. Other proposed industries are boat building, ship building and coopering. Saw milling will be engaged in to provide lumber for building purposes and wood manufactures as well as for export. Seal fishing and probably whale fishing will be added to the company's operations. An outfitting store or depot will be established at some central harbor, on the west coast, so that sealing schooners and other vessels may refit and take in their supplies before sailing on intended voyages. The present trading stations along the coast, where dog-fish oil and furs are obtained in considerable quantities from the natives, will probably be amalgamated with the company's business, and extended by the settlement of white fishermen along the coast. The company will carry on their business as much as possible in the same localities as those occupied by the crofter fishermen and other settlers under "the Crofter Colonization Scheme," so that "capital and labor" will work in concert. Limestone of superior quality, roofing slate, sandstone, granite, marble, iron, coal, timber and the precious metals, are to be found on or contiguous to the locations proposed to be occupied, and only want the application of capital and labor to open up a multitude of industries. It is also proposed to erect salmon smoking and salting establishments and probably a salmon cannery on the west coast. The various industries indicated above as well as the large amount of capital which will be introduced into the province by the proposed joint stock company in connection with the colonization loan from the British Government, altogether over a million dollars, should incline every well-wisher of British Columbia to wish Mr. Begg God speed in these enterprises, which, if properly conducted, should be a profitable investment to shareholders, and cannot fail to prove of immense benefit to the Province and to the settlements which they will create.

A Marvellous Recovery.

I was so ill with inflammatory rheumatism in 1882 that I was given up, and had all my earthly business put in order. One of my sons begged me to get Burdock Blood Bitters. After the third bottle I could sit up alone and eat a good meal, and in six weeks I was out of bed feeling better than I ever felt. I take three bottles every spring, and two every fall. MRS. M. N. THE MINERS' VERSION.

The President of the M. & M. L. P. A. Replies to Mr. Dunsmuir's Statement.

Mr. Tully Boyce, President of the Miners and Mine Laborers Protective Association, replies to Mr. Jas. Dunsmuir's statements in the TIMES, and incidentally says some things about the TIMES not justified by facts. But we will let that pass. In reference to the question at issue between the miners and the mine owners, Mr. Boyce says:

"He, (Mr. Dunsmuir) is reported as saying that when a grievance committee was asked by the men that the company wanted a committee of mine managers which was objected to by the men. This is untrue, as they would not even discuss the subject with their own employees. This was the reason the committee from the other collieries was sent to them from the mass meeting held on May 17th, and the only business they discussed with them was to induce them to recognize and treat with their employees as an organized body and part of our association, which up to that date, and yet they refuse to do. It was a committee of their own employees who waited on them about the hours of labor after they had been locked out because they refused to work longer than the miners employed at the other collieries in the district. The Wellington miners were requested to work only the same as the others, as it was not considered just to competing companies to give the Wellington Co. the advantage of long hours when they were not getting the same. This bombast of not being dictated to does not deserve consideration, but I will say that our association has no intention of dictating to any employer, but we do demand fair and just treatment for our members. This we believe the Wellington Co. are not doing; we don't think they pay fair wages or treat their employees equally, as some are making good wages while the majority are down to the starvation point, although they seem to be very fond of boasting of how well they treat and pay their men. I will here furnish a sample of the wages earned at the Wellington collieries by what is considered average workmen. The figures I take from the pay checks issued by the company, out of over a hundred in my possession, given me by miners employed there. I will give six average ones, neither highest no lowest, and for obvious reasons I suppress the names, but if these figures are disputed or denied I am authorized to expose them.

No. 1, earnings for the month $36.68, worked 25 days at $1.46 per day.

No. 2, earnings for the month $58.55, worked 25 days at $2.34 per day.

No. 3, earnings for the month $46.84, worked 23 days at $2.03 per day.

No. 4, earnings for the month $46.95, worked 24 days at $1.95 per day.

No. 5, earnings for the month $56.34, worked 24 days at $2.34 per day.

No. 6, earnings for the month $30.58, worked 22 days at $1.39 per day.

This is the net earnings after deducting expenses for powder, oil and medicine fees. It will be seen that taking the six statements given the average wages was $1.92. I will here state that I have not selected the six lowest as the claim might be made that they were poor workmen. Can this be considered good wages; is this fair treatment? And this wage is not confined to six men nor one hundred. Can a man provide the comforts of life for a wife and children on $1.92 per day? I will leave it to an impartial public to decide. Mr. James Dunsmuir says if a committee of business men can show him where they have been treating their employees unfairly he will consider suggestions. Will he bind himself to abide by the decision of such a committee, if so, I will say on behalf of our association that the trouble of the Wellington collieries will be a thing of the past. The miners' association will gladly leave their case to an impartial board of arbitrators, and for the sake of all concerned it is to be hoped the Wellington company will arrive at the same conclusion and forever do away with strikes and strifes where all is loss and no gain.

MINES SHUT DOWN.

Result of the Trouble at Wellington—No Settlement Effected.

In accordance with previous arrangements, a conference was held at Wellington this afternoon, between the Wellington mine owners and a committee of the Wellington miners.

The owners were represented by Mr. James Dunsmuir, Mr. Alex. Dunsmuir, and Mr. John Bryden, Manager.

The miners' committee consisted of six Wellington employees—one representing each nationality at work in the several pits of the Wellington collieries.

The owners declined to accede to the demand of the men claiming eight hours a day, the time to count from leaving the surface to reaching the surface again, or in mining parlance from bank to bank.

The company contended that the hours should count from commencing work in the stalls and leaving the work there, in other words they decline to pay the men wages for the time they are going from the pit mouth and returning.

The owners stated that they would work the mines to suit themselves and allow no dictation. Neither would they recognize any pit committee; but if a committee from the body of the men, the same as the committee of to-day, Mr. Bryden said he would meet them. They would not recognize a District committee, or any one from the Association. They also said that if men made deficient wages by having bad places they could go to the boss and he would equalize matters.

The owners said the men could go back to work the same as before and would not recognize the eight-hour system. If the men would not go to work on these terms they would close the mines down for twelve months. It is now stated that the Wellington mines will be closed down for an indefinite period.

A general meeting of the miners of Wellington will be held at the Somerset House, on Wednesday at 3 o'clock p. m., when the situation will be considered.—Free Press.

Miners Leaving.

There were from twenty to thirty miners from Wellington yesterday, for this city en route to the old country. Most of them were Belgians, who intend leaving till the trouble is over and then they stated they will return to work again.

Workingmen's Meeting.

A mass meeting in connection with the coming Provincial election, will be held at the Victoria Theatre, on Friday, May 30th, at 8 p. m. This Workingmen's Meeting is called by the workingmen in the interest of workingmen at the expense of workingmen. All candidates are invited to attend.

Special Train.

A special train passed through to Wellington Monday afternoon, says the Free Press, having on board Mrs. Dunsmuir and family. Mrs. Dunsmuir came up expressly for the purpose of being present at the conference between the employees and employers of the Wellington Collieries, which took place this afternoon.

Grasshoppers Actions.

The grasshoppers have commenced depredations in the district between Kamloops and Shuswap, says the Inland Sentinel, and fears are entertained that they will do serious damage to the hay and grain crops. Should the present dry weather continue for a lengthened period, many fields will not yield any crop at all, as the small streams are now almost dry, and there are no water available for irrigating purposes.

Got a Shock.

One of the employees of the Electric Tramway was oiling the pulley of one of the cars this morning when he thoughtlessly caught the overhead wire with one hand and the trolley with the other. The circuit was turned on at the time and consequently he had 500 volts sent through his system, which will teach him a lesson. The electricity went in one of his hands and came out of the other.

A Boating Accident.

Mr. J. G. Day, while sailing in Esquimalt harbor yesterday afternoon, was capsized by a heavy squall striking his boat. Two boatmen who happened to be near at hand, put out to Mr. Day's assistance, and managed to right his boat without any serious damage. Mr. Day was near the magazine at the time and as a strong breeze was blowing it is doubtful whether he would have been able to save himself if help had not been close at hand.

Worthy of Mention.

The Victoria Band recently organized deserves universal credit for the progress already made, not only for its attractive musical features but also because it is the first effort for some time to organize a band with high musical aim, and which seems likely to be to Victoria what similar organizations are to other large cities. Its members are selected from the very best musical talent of our city. The two Sunday programmes already rendered at Beacon Hill were of high standing and most difficult to perform, and were thoroughly enjoyed by the hundreds of people who thronged the Park, nothing but praise being heard on all sides for the new band.

A Curiosity.

A sight not often seen in the public streets was noticed to-day by a TIMES reporter. The curiosity was a drunken Chinaman, who had, in addition to his drunkenness, adopted a less harmful habit of civilization, that of wearing his shirt inside his pants. Gloriously drunk, the Mongolian reeled along the street, and the happy and vacuous smile that rested placidly upon his flat features, showed that the extract of rye had a benign and soothing effect in this instance. The Chinaman, does not as a rule, cotton to the vices of the European, although they have many more calculated to disgust, which are peculiarly their own. A drunken Chinaman is fortunately a curio.

NORTHERN CIVILIZATION.

Notes From Alaska—Whiskey Licenses—Chinese Influx.

The people of the territory of Alaska are agitated just now over the liquor license question. At present the liquor business there is regulated somewhat after the fashion of the permit system of the western territories of Canada, and what the people want, is the local control of the traffic similar to that existing here and elsewhere. *

A new method of disposing of seized or contraband liquors has been inaugurated at Sitka. Instead of consuming or selling it has heretofore been the custom, it is taken out on the parade ground and with much ceremony in the presence of a mouth-watering assemblage, it is destroyed.

The influx of Chinese into Alaska, says the Juneau Record, has been enormous this season to engage in the salmon canning industry. It is estimated that at least 1500 Mongolians have sailed from San Francisco alone to be distributed along our shores, to say nothing of the number who have been labelled and shipped from other ports on the coast, and also those who have come within the realms of the United States from British Columbia by coming up the inland passage in canoes and then at the close of the season return to American ports. The fact that Chinese are of no earthly benefit to any community has been established long ago, but they are of less benefit to Alaska than they are to any other section. They are brought here under contract by canning companies and receive no pay until they return at the end of the season, consequently they leave none of their earnings in our midst.

CITY POLICE COURT.

(Before Hon. A. N. Richards, Q. C., P. M.)

In this court this morning a drunk was fined $5 and a Chinaman charged with attempting to supply whiskey to an Indian was given six months.

J. Jones did not answer to the charge of assault and a fine of $5 and costs was ordered to be imposed upon him if he should turn up.

PERSONAL.

Movements of Well Known People in Various Directions.

Judge and Mrs. Bole are in the city.

H. F. Keefer, of Vancouver, is in the city.

Capt. Robertson, Moresby Island, is in the city.

F. H. Osgood and wife, of Seattle, are in the city.

E. A. Port of New Westminster came down last night.

Mrs. E. C. Neufelder, of Seattle, came over last evening.

Sheriff McMillan returned from the Mainland last evening.

Miss Reid, daughter of Rev. Dr. Reid, has returned from Montana.

Ben Young came down from the Fraser on the Yosemite this morning.

W. E. Joslyn, of the TIMES staff, left this morning for a trip on the Mainland in the interests of the paper.

W. H. Whittaker, of Kamloops, who has been in the city for the last week returns home to-morrow morning. He says it will be a Kamloops horse that will win the B. C. Derby next year.

Vernon W. Smith, formerly of Victoria, and now of Spokane Falls, is in the city on a visit. Mr. Smith says Spokane has had a marvellous growth, having risen from a city of 14,000 to 35,000 in a little over two years. It has finer buildings than any other town on the coast, very many of those put up since the fire being five and seven stories in height. Its electric street car system is said to be the finest system in the States. It is operated by water power obtained from the falls.

Dogs in Durance.

The pound-keeper has posted a notice at the City Hall, which states that 10 dogs that are now confined in the city pound will be sold by auction on Saturday, unless the charges on them are paid. If there are not buyers for all the dogs, the unsold ones will be executed in accordance with a by-law made and provided for such cases.

Daily Test.

Commencing with to-morrow Chief Deasy will turn in one of the alarm boxes just at 12 o'clock. This will be repeated daily, a different box being tested every time. In this way the apparatus will be kept in thorough order, and should any defects or breakages in the wire or system arise they will at once be noticed and can be set right. The fire alarm is a good deal like a revolver in Texas. It may not be needed for a long time, but when it is needed, it is needed very badly. This daily test will insure the good working of the system when it is required.

WORKINGMEN'S PLATFORM.

The Nanaimo Workingmen Prepare a Political Platform.

The following is the platform prepared by the Workingmen's Campaign Committee of Nanaimo:

Believing that the first principles of representative Government should be to accomplish the greatest good for the greatest number; to secure the workers the full enjoyment of the wealth they create, sufficient leisure in which to develope their intellectual, moral and social faculties, in a word, to enable them to share in the gains and honors of advancing civilization; to secure these objects we must have men to advance our cause on the floor of the Legislative Hall of our Province; therefore vote only for men who will advocate the following demands:

1. That the land, the heritage of the people, be reserved for actual settlers, not another acre for corporations or speculators, and all land so held at present be taxed to its full rental value.

2. The adoption of measures providing for the health and safety of those engaged in mining, manufacturing and building industries, and for the indemnification of those engaged therein for injuries received through lack of necessary safeguards.

3. The enactment of laws providing for arbitration between employer and employes, and to enforce the decision of the arbitrators.

4. The adoption of a Mechanics Lien Law giving to mechanics and laborers a first lien upon the product of their labor to the extent of their full wages.

5. That a clause be inserted in all charters granted by the Provincial Government, prohibiting the employment of Chinese.

6. The repeal of the unjust laws passed at the last session giving vast tracts of land and royalties on minerals therein to railroad corporations.

7. That we condemn the policy of creating and fostering monopolies, as they tend to prevent legitimate competition, leaving it possible for the few to accumulate vast fortunes at the expense of the many.

8. That we consider the present system of taxation to be unjust, therefore we demand that a graduated income tax be levied.

9. That we do all in our power to further the advancement of the short hours movement.

10. In the interests of Education we consider that the control of the Schools should be left in the hands of the Local Board, the Government merely exercising a general supervision over them.

Political.

Messrs. Ford and Booth and Capt. Robertson are the only candidates in the Islands.

The Wires.

The telegraph wires were prostrated to-day and only renewed their normal condition of intermittent usefulness about 3 p. m. Our dispatches consequently are very limited.

Signs, Lots, Strawberries.

Messrs. Crane, McGregor & Boggs are inquiring anxiously for two valuable signs which have been missing from their office door since the 24th.

The firm informed a reporter to-day that if they knew there was any demand for sign boards they would have kept them in stock, but as they have a number of beautifully situated lots with wild strawberries growing on them, they feel these would be a more profitable investment. Notwithstanding that it is so early in the season no extra charge is made for the strawberries.

Victoria District.

The rumor that Mr. McIlmoyl has withdrawn from the contest in Victoria District, is, we have been assured, entirely trustworthy. Mr. McIlmoyl received the nomination of the North Saanich electors, as an Independent candidate, in opposition to the Government ticket—Messrs. Anderson and Eberts. There were other aspirants, but it was unanimously conceded that Mr. McIlmoyl was the most eligible of the number, for the simple reason that he was the most popular personally and one of the best informed among local politicians. But there is a good deal that is fallible among the Saanich politicians. Oppositionists as well as Government. There are always a few "kickers" on general principles, and there are among these the material out of which whenever the occasion shall arise traitors are made. Mr. McIlmoyl, it is alleged, found that a few of the kickers refused to be appeased, and that they unblushingly announced their intention of supporting the Government candidates, although a few days ago they had pronounced their continued hostility to the Robson party. Such is Saanich politics. Mr. Carey to-day issues a card announcing himself an independent supporter of the Government, to-morrow he is selected by the Cedar Hill District as an opponent of the Government, and then Mr. Carey recedes from his first position and comes out "agin the Government." The TIMES refuses to wink at such practices on the part of those who profess opposition to the Government, and respectfully declines being held responsible for the vagaries of every crank or sorehead that has resolved, when he cannot rule, to ruin the party with which he is allied. Mr. McIlmoyl has, perhaps, on the whole, done well to withdraw from the fight, although there was a reasonably good prospect that he would have been elected.

VERY IMPORTANT TO TRADE.

Freight Carried from Calcutta to the Pacific Coast.

Freight is now being forwarded from Calcutta to the Pacific coast via the Canadian Pacific steamers on through bills of lading. On the last steamer a large amount of freight arrived from Calcutta for Portland. This is a very important matter to the Pacific coast as it opens up a new route between here and Great Britain for the winter months. If freight can be carried successfully from Calcutta the whole problem is solved, as on account of the great competition existing between these points, it is carried from the old country to Calcutta for practically nothing—considering the distance.

A Boon to Mankind.

The quickest, surest and best remedy for rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sore throat, soreness and lameness, is Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It quickly cures sprains, bruises, burns, frostbites, chilblains, etc. For croup, cold, quinsy, etc., take 10 to 30 drops on sugar, and apply the oil externally also, when immediate relief will result. *
